Six Counties to Celebrate at Opening of Last Link in Tahoe-Ukiah Highway

Twenty Home Loans In Nev. City Total $7,593

E. M. Rector, manager of the Nevada City branch of the Bank of America, yesterday stated that Federal home loans made to Nevada City owners have now reached a total of $7,593. This is still less than one half of the quota of $20,000, which it had been estimated this community would borrow.

The $7,593 loaned goes to twenty home owners in Nevada City, which makes the average loan less than $400.

Dispatches from Washington state that the Home Owners Loan Corporation will refuse further business. The doors were closed against new loan applications. Tuesday, with the report that the time was near when private business would once more take over its functions.

The Home Owners Loan Corporation with more than a million unanswered applications on - file, announced that the $1,200,000,000 remaining in its coffers would fill about $400,000 of these requests and that it would take no more.

OLDER BOYS TO HOLD CONCLAVE IN NEVADA CITY

The annual Older Boys' Conference of Northern California will be held in Nevada City this year, December 15 and 16. The Older Boys' Conference is held each year under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., and various high schools, for the purpose of discussing high school problems and their solutions. The delegates are sent from high schools all over Northern California, and are selected on a basis of scholarship and character.

This year Mr. Kjorlie extended the invitation of Nevada City high school to the conference. There will be about seventy-five delegates attending. On the program are two luncheons, a banquet, a stunt night. An excursion will be held in their honor. The luncheons will be prepared by Miss Bartholomew's home economics classes, and the banquet will be given by the Nevada City Epworth League. The stunt night will be somewhat in the order of the Grass Valley stunt night held recently, and will include a stunt by each class and numerous comic concessions.

The theme of the conference this year is to be taken from the song and poem, "The Builder."

WILLOW VALLEY MINES ACTIVE

Kistle Brothers, and partners, making a crew of six, have taken a working lease on the United, Independent and LeCompton mining properties in the Willow Valley district on Deer Creek, which are owned by E. J. N. Ott, Nevada City assayer. The men have cleaned out the old workings and are now talking out ore.

The five stamp mill on the property has been crushing ore carrying good values for about two weeks.

IDAHO-MARYLAND MINES

A headframe is to be erected very shortly over the five foot circular shaft on the Idaho-Maryland mine property between the old Brunswick and Idaho-Maryland shafts. The drilling machine continues to improve with changes and improvements and the shaft is now down over 150 feet. J. B. Newson, inventor, is in charge of the crew of men.

The new 1,000 ton capacity ore bin at the Idaho-Maryland mine is filled with ore and further crushing awaits completion of the 300 ton Marcey mill which will be in readiness for operation within a few days.

BIRTH

BORN—At Nevada City Sanitarium, on November 13, to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Szmanski, of Nimrod St., Grass Valley, a daughter.

BEDDING FIRE BUG MUST PAY $20 FINE

A fine of $100 accompanied by a jail sentence of 20 days was imposed upon W. L. Wiley charged before City Judge Coughlan, with tossing a burning quilt or mattress out of his window and thereby igniting a fire in the adjoining building. The complaint was filed by Fire Chief E. J. N. Ott. The defendent stated that he is employed in construction work for one of the CCC camps. In view of the fact that the defendent seemed to be duly impressed with the seriousness of his offence and to have learned a lesson, the fire chief recommended leniency and defendent was granted probation on condition that he pay $20 on or before December 1, but that if he became involved in any further trouble during the term imposed he would have to serve the full term.

HALLOWE'EN CULPRITS GIVEN PROBATION TERM

Juvenile Court was held yesterday to try the cases of the eleven boys who confessed their guilt of the damage done to Principal H. E. Kjorlie's home last Hallowe'en Eve. Superior Judge Raglan Tuttle gave the boys three years probation, and in the case of one boy, over 21 years old, five years probation was given. The boys are also to pay for the damage done to Mr. Kjorlie's wall and house. Judge Tuttle gave each of the boys a lecture on the gravity of their misdemeanor, and a warning as to their future conduct.

In accordance with the long-standing policy the names of the juvenile offenders are not to be made public.

MALICIOUS ALARM CALLS OUT FIREMEN

The fire alarm put in from out toward the high school Tuesday night at about 8 o'clock, was a false alarm, believed to have been turned in with malicious intent. This is a misdemeanor and if the culprit is caught he will be prosecuted.

U. C. INSPECTOR VISITS NEV. CITY HIGH SCHOOL

Prof. Clarence Paschall, high school inspector of the University of California, was a visitor at the Nevada City high school Tuesday. He dropped in on several classes to observe the teaching methods. Prof. Paschall teaches German in the University.

C. H. BARTON PASSED AWAY

Charles H. Barton, an elderly man of North San Juan, passed away Wednesday night and the body is at the Holmes Funeral Home in Nevada City.

Mr. Barton leaves a daughter, Mrs. Pollock in Sacramento; a brother, Christopher Barton in Berkeley; and several nephews and nieces. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet.

Fair Enough

EMPRESS MINE IN PRODUCTION

The big 300 ton daily capacity mill and ten unit flotation plant at the Empress mine in the Newtown section, has gone into production after a most satisfactory tryout. Mining and development continues on the different levels. The crew has been enlarged until the company is employing 35 men. Ore from the mine is crushed at the mouth of the shaft by a primary crusher, which deposits the broken ore on a long conveyor belt that leads to the new mill several hundred feet away.

VEGETABLES AND BUYER WERE "FRESH"

R. H. Gordonross, who owns the 'White Spot" near Lake Vera, was a Nevada City visitor Wednesday. He was carrying a bunch of magnificent white crysanthemums he had brought in to give several friends, one or two of whom were ill. He has been cultivating and perfecting these flowers for four years and succeeded in raising 100 choice blossoms this year, a few of them being as large as dinner plates.

Mr. Gordonross, a veteran, injured overseas, also raises vegetables which he sells. He stated, a prominent bay district business man, while driving by, noticed the garden and stopped to buy a nice sized order of vegetables. When Mr. Gordonross was pulling the last beet the man turned and said, "Will you guarantee these to be fresh?"

FRED F. BREESE BORNE TO REST

Impressive services in the Elk's lodge were held Tuesday for the late Fred F. Breeze. Scores of friends were present to pay the last tribute of friendship to the good sportsman and good citizen whom death had claimed. The casket, covered with a profusion of floral pieces, bore mute testimony to the high esteem in which Fred Breese was held in this community.

During the services, Mrs. Katherine Celio, accompanied by Marshall Geiselman, sang, "Lead Kindly Light."

The beautiful ritual for the dead was read by Exalted Ruler W. E. Wright, assisted by other officers of the lodge. Pall bearers were: J. W. Darke, Irving Seaman, John W. O'Neill, John T. Fortier, Martin Vanberg and E. C. Uren. The funeral arrangements were in charge of W. R. Jefford & Son. The remains were taken to Sacramento for cremation.

R. B. THOMPSON BURIED TODAY

The body of R. B. Thompson, a miner of the Dutch Flat section who it is believed fell into the Bear River while mining and drowned, was brought to the Holmes Funeral Home in Nevada City. He was a native of Sidney, Iowa and almost 69 years of age. A sister, Mrs. Edith Rudolph, of Hollywood, was notified and came up for the funeral which will take place at 10:30 this morning at the Holmes' Funeral Home. Rev. H. H. Buckner will conduct the services.

Held in Robles Kidnaping

An intensive half-year search for the persons involved in the kidnaping of 6-year-old June Robles and her imprisonment for 19 days in an iron cage on the desert near Tucson, Ariz., last April, culminated in the arrest of Oscar H. Robson, above, 31, Arizona night life character, friend of the Robles and so-called "playboy of the southwest." Robson has denied abducting the girl and sending the ransom notes.

Bear Valley Mecca of Motorists Sunday

Sixteen years of planning and building will be completed Sunday when the last link in the Tahoe-Ukiah highway, leading from Bear Valley to the junction with Highway Forty when formally opened with appropriate ceremony.

A meeting of the committee of arrangements was held yesterday morning in the Nevada City chamber of commerce, at which the program was approved. The members of the committee consist of Jack Wolff, Fred E. Conner, M. T. Smith, Phil Scadden and George Calanan. The committee met with James K. O'Brien, who began the campaign for the road in December, 1918, and is now haled as its "daddy."

The program which will begin at one o'clock next Sunday afternoon will be as follows: Opening address by James K. O'Brien, a talk by one of the officials of the State of Nevada, a short address by Seth Millington, prominent in the Native Sons organization, a congratulatory talk by Edward J. Neron, deputy director of the Public Works, and an address by Governor Frank C. Merriam.

CARAVAN TO GATHER

The caravan which will gather from the six counties through which the Tahoe-Ukiah highway lies, namely, Mendocino, Lake, Colusa, Sutter, Yuba and Nevada, will gather in Memorial Park in Grass Valley Sunday morning in time to leave there at 11:45 o'clock. Supervisors of all the counties have been especially invited to participate.

James K. O'Brien, general chairman of the celebration yesterday recounted the first steps taken toward the building of the road and specially praised the active assistance and enthusiastic support given the project by the Nevada County Board of Supervisors.

THOSE WHO HELPED

Among those who had much to do with unifying and harmonizing all elements in this county, Mr. O'Brien stated, were Arthur Foote, Chris Miller, G. J. Rector, and A. A. Mosher.

The first motor trip over the road was made in December, 1918, when on invitation of Mr. O'Brien, N. D. Darling, chairman of the State Highway Commission, accompanied Mr. O'Brien over the proposed route from Ukiah to White Cloud over such roads as then existed. From Nevada City to White Cloud the old Washington road through Willow Valley and winding up to the ridge with many a bump and jar.

The brave little company started out with chicken dinner and before the trip was concluded they have been served with four chicken dinners, one chicken luncheon, and at Nevada City the boniface, not to be outdone by his fellows, served a chicken breakfast.

HOW GOVERNORS DIFFER

Thus was the road first roughly scouted. It was agreed to include it in the proposed third bond issue. Governor Stephens was in favor of it. But on the advent of Friend William Richardson in the office of Governor, this pudgy executive frowned. He declared it "California's pork-barrel road," and refused to permit any appropriation upon it. Governor Young, however, enthusiastically supported the plan and during his administration the greater part of the work was done. Rolph carried on the good work, and next Sunday California motorists will be able to ride smoothly from Ukiah to Tahoe over one of the most modern highways in the state.

TWO PURPOSES SERVED

The completion of the Bear Valley link serves two purposes. Primarily it opens the door to a sizeable amount of through traffic and, secondarily, it provides the means by which a pleasant loop trip can be made by Sacramento Valley motorists.

On such a loop the motorists, on leaving Sacramento, drives over marvelous highway through Roseville, Rocklin, Loomis, Newcastle, Auburn and Colfax to Emigrant Gap.

At Emigrant Gap the motorist has the view off to the left of Bear Valley, the beautiful canyon into which the trip shortly will lead.

Just before passing through the subway there, a road will be seen leading off to the left. It is a precipitous one, rough, narrow and crooked, that leads into Bear Valley. It is this road that has been relegated to a thing of the past by construction of the new unit.

AT JUNCTION POINT

From Emigrant Gap, eighty-two miles from Sacramento, drive on the Victory highway to a point three miles east, the junction point of the new Bear Valley unit.

The new highway proceeds at a steady grade, four miles to the floor of Bear Valley, through timber most of the way, over the Pacific Gas and Electric canal leading from Lake Spaulding, and past the junction point of the old precipitous road between the valley floor and Emigrant Gap.

The new highway is wide and has an asphalt pavement, which will permit its use the year round. From the end of the new highway there follows one mile of new grading across the floor of the valley. Then follows a three-mile grade to the north ridge of the valley, then 21 miles of splendid paved highway through the timber along the ridge to Nevada City.

SERA PROJECT IMPROVING CITY

Superintendent of Public Works Herbert Hallet had his crew at work on Broad street Wednesday filling in the cavities and depressions with gravel and tar to prevent the gathering of water in the parking spaces which caused so much trouble last winter during the storms.

Applications for funds to construct a pipe line from the Sugar Loaf reservoir to Nevada City, and to clean up and landscape the park around the swimming pool, have been granted by the SERA, and work is proceding on them. Applications for street repair work in Nevada City are expected to be acted upon favorably by the SERA, according to Mr. Hallett. The city provides the material, while the SERA supplies and pays for the labor.

CEDAR CREST GROVE

Cedar Crest Grove, Circle No. 41, held a social time in Pythian Castle Wednesday evening. The Circle plans a public card party for Wednesday, December 12. The officers of this recently organized Circle are: Mrs. Lila Day, guardian; Mrs. Gertrude Ainsworth, past guardian; Peggy Flynn, advisor; Mrs. Marie Carney, chaplain.

U. S. N. Johson, owner of the Bret Harte Guernesey Dairy, left Wednesday to attend the Pacific Slope Dairy Show and convention in San Francisco. Latest improvements in dairy machinery are to be on exhibit.

1.90 INCHES OF RAIN SO FAR THIS WEEK

According to the rain gauge at the home of Mrs. Jennie Preston in Nevada City, the rainfall for the last storm to three o'clock Thursday afternoon was 1.90 inches. The storm so far this season measures 7.07 inches. The downpour of warm rain Wednesday evening was accompained by a wind storm.

CONSOLIDATING RECOVERY FORCES

A. P. Giannini, creator and head of the Bank of America very frankly states that the million ballots cast for Sinclair mean something. He interprets the Sinclair movement as signifying that California's wealthiest groups must be prepared, even willing, to accept half a loaf in the future where they have the past been taking a whole loaf.

Of all the voices which have been raised in recent weeks in behalf of social and economic reforms, none has spoken with more authority and with a more liberal spirit than that of California's leading banker.

Evidence accumulates that forces bent upon recovery will hereafter present a more united front in their effort to bring back better times. The elements entering into this renewed drive against the common enemy—depression—under the high command of the President of the United States, have been more discernible since the memorable appeal of Mr. Roosevelt to the convention of the American Bankers Association in Washington.

The President's appeal for "an alliance of all forces intent upon the business of recovery," met with instant response from the bankers in whose hands are those tremendous resources which, properly marshaled, can bring production and consumption back to normal, with work for millions now without jobs. The prompt action of the bankers in asking for places on the President's "All-American" recovery team is regarded in influential quarters as a real milestone on the road to recovery—an augury of better understanding between the Government and private enterprise.

From another high quarter came another significant appeal for cooperation from all American business in shaping the future pattern of NRA—the pattern of the governmental organization which is to continue the work of recovery after next June when the present Recovery Act expires. This other appeal came from that seasoned veteran of NRA, A. D. Whitesides, president of Dunn & Bradstreet, Inc., and a member of the National Industrial Recovery Board. Mr. Whiteside in a speech at Atlantic City, invited American business men to offer suggestions for the new NRA which Congress will be called upon to authorize next year.

"The Government," said Mr. Whiteside, "is tending more and more to withdraw from Codes where the Code Authorities know what they are about. In other words, Mr. Whiteside told the business men of the United States that it's up to them to let Congress know the kind of a recovery law they want.

Finally, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States struck a new note of optimism in a summary of national business affairs issued after the President's talk to the bankers. This summary declared that "further indications of a convergence of the general aims of business and the administration in promoting recovery, and a growing realization that it must come about through the revival of industry and employment, characterized development of the last fortnight."

Declaring further that this new union of aims between business and the administration in Washington was revealed in a number of ways, particularly in the President's address to the bankers, the Chamber of Commerce statement went on to say that continued improvement of business sentiment is discernible and "the President's assurances that present governmental lending operations are not to be permanent and that private enterprise will be supported have been favorably received."

All of these trends are reassuring particularly in view of President Roosevelt's plainly expressed purpose to curtail the activities of Federal recovery agencies in just such proportion as private agencies take up those functions in which government of necessity has been forced to assume leadership.

The Public Enemy's Enemy

Better Than They Knew

First were builded little cabins
In the groves of oak and pine,
Rough hewn cabins crudely fashioned
By the men of forty nine;
By them flowed a shady streamlet,
On its way to find the sea,
Babbling with a soft insistence
Of a little town to be.

Some one bridged the babbling streamlet,
Some on heard the cry of "gold,"
Lumber jacks and miners mingled
In those virile days of old;
Nature gave her treasures freely—
Wealth of mine and strength of tree;
Soon were laid the firm foundations
Of a little town to be.

Miners, lumber jacks and teamsters,
When the crescent moon was low,
Spoke in strangely softened voices
Of the girls they used to know;
Homes arose as though by magic,
Children's voices rang with glee,
For the little dreamland city
Had become reality.

Mother Lode, this is your story,
Multiplied a thousand fold;
Roaring camps and bustling cities
Marked your flaming trails of old;
Many passed but others lingered,
To the dreams and dreamers true,
for the pioneers who reared them,
Builded better than they knew.

—A. Merriam Conner.

From Aunt Sarah

Spanish Beans are essentially a winter dish. Where the salad was sufficient for the main luncheon dish in summer, a good plate of hot beans fills the bill on a cold wintry day. One nice thing about a big pot of Spanish beans is that it will keep in cold weather and so can be warmed over for another meal.

Spanish Beans

Soak one quart of pink beans over night. Pour off the water and add fresh water, bring this to a boil and pour it off. Cover well again with water and bring to a boil, cook until beans are tender.

Cut two slices bacon fine, fry to a golden brown, remove from pan, cut two medium sized onions fine and fry in the bacon grease. Add one-half cup olive oil, 1 quart can tomatoes (or one can tomato sauce). Add to this about one tablespoonful chili powder, 2 bay leaves and two cloves, garlic chopped fine, cook slowly 10 minutes. Put this mixture of bacon, onions, garlic etc., through a course sieve and add to the beans about one-half hour before done. Beans made this way give the truly Spanish blend. After trying it once or twice with the recipe you have the method and can always cook Spanish beans.

RED CROSS AGENCIES SAFEGUARD HEALTH

First Aid, Life Saving, Nursing Care, Promote Health and Safety

Five outstanding services make up the health-conservation program of the American Red Cross, according to the annual report just issued in Washington. These services are first aid and life saving, which together have trained more than a million persons; nursing, with an active enrollment of 36,133 registered nurses; Public Health Nursing, conducted by 750 nurses in 424 chapters last year; and Home Hygiene, which has taught more than 700,000 men and women simple ways of caring for the sick at home.

"The achievements of the Red Cross in public health nursing place it among the leaders in this field," said James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations. "This service was organized in 1919 to meet needs developed by the World War and the ravages of the flu epidemic which in 1918-1919 took so great a toll of life.

"Since that time Red Cross nursing services have been pioneers in more than one half of the counties in the United State. Many services we established were taken over later by civic, state and federal agencies, and the Red Cross continues to establish services in other new fields. Red Cross nurses made more than a million visits to patients last year, and 629,025 children in schools were inspected.

"Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are especially important in times of depression, because they teach families to maintain hygienic conditions in their own homes and to recognize symptoms of illness early enough to prevent serious consequences.

"Our courses in first aid have been instrumental in saving lives of the injured; in safeguarding the accident victim until the physician arrives, and in reducing time lost by workers in factories, mines and other industries. We are also giving the course extensively to police and fire departments throughout the country, and to state highway patrols."

Everyone is invited to join the Red Cross during the annual membership roll call which continues from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, to have a part in the health program and the other humanitarian services of the Red Cross.

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Alexander McNulty

THE AFTERMATH

Boldly written, in letters of heroic size, is the message from the American people as expressed in the November 6th., elections. To many, this message may not as yet be fully clear. By far the greater part who helped to write it did not understand the full import of this portentous message.

The nation-wide move toward liberalism, cutting across old party lines in many cases, but in practically every instance supporting candidates endorsed by Roosevelt; has two fundamental reasons. First, and of least importance as it effects the future, it means that the country endorses in principle at least, the New Deal and its policies. Of far deeper importance however, is the clear exposition of the underlying feeling that democracy as it has been understood and practiced in our country for the past century is failing. It means that the people believe the old system of long and aimless parliamentary debate, partisan opposition, petty sectionalism with its resultant pork barrel politics, blocs, and the countless other checks and obstacles to quick and necessary action should be elmininated. It means the people want the authority and power centralized. By selecting as their representatives men who are pledged to support the Administration, the old form is maintained. If an Administration were inclined to become dictatorial such a Congress would provide the brake.

The spirit of the country trends toward more liberal reform. Everyone realizes that in the momentous changes that must be made, mistakes will be made, but that these mistakes can be corrected. They realize that swift action is vital and that to obtain swift action, power and authority must be centralized.

CALIFORNIA

Sinclair's defeat in the recent elections had been fairly well conceded. Human nature being what it is, it was almost a foregone conclusion that no man could hope for victory over such a stupendous and cleverly timed avalanche of propaganda as was directed against Sinclair.

The principle, however, of which Upton Sinclair was merely the symbol, won a tremendous victory. How great this victory is, only time will tell, but it is safe to forecast that the time will be short. That this principle, extreme liberalism, Socialism, leftism, or whatever you choose to name it—should have received the tremendous support it did, in the face of such an unprecedented attack upon its symbol, is truly portentous. There is no doubt that it was that very delicate subject, religion, so cleverly injected into the contest, that defeated Sinclaim, the man. Had the issues involved been purely economic, it is very probable Sinclair would have been elected.

As an experiment in the trend of thought, the recent election is illuminating. The tragedy is that reform, or liberalism had as its champion one who is a great crusader and an idealist but not a practical man; not one who could successfully govern a great commonwealth made up of all classes of people.

MACK MINES

The Mack Mines in the Canada Hill section east of Nevada City, closed down Wednesday after a summer's run. Mr. Wallace, who is developing the property, returned to Los Angeles where he is employed in the assessor's office his work appraising of mining and oil machinery and equipment. The cross cut on the 125 foot level in the Mack mine, was completed when a vein was contacted which shows fair values. Some bad ground was encountered and Mr. Wallace decided to shut down for the winter and resume drifting in the spring, when he will drift under the old workings into the main ore shoot.

GOLD YEAR FETE FOR CALIFORNIA GETS UNDER WAY

Plans for a national tourist advertising campaign built around the color and romance of California's gold fields, to attract hundreds of thousands of tourists to this state next year were presented before the two-day meeting of the state chamber of commerce, recently held in San Francisco.

With the Los Angeles Aqueduct and San Francisco's bridge celebration planned for 1937, and the San Diego International Exposition for 1936, the state chamber fears tourists will be tempted to pass up California in 1935 unless some major attraction is offered.

A Gold Year of 1935 is the answer, in the opinion of George D. Smith, president of the California State Hotel Association. Smith says all of the major booster groups have endorsed the gold year idea, and he will call upon the state chamber directors to "throw off our lethargy and get to work."

"Tourist travel has been on the decrease," Smith says, "because of the depression and because of the major attractions offered by other states during the past couple of years. This year, for instance, vacation advertising throughout the nation is up 40 per cent from last year, showing the work being done by other states and communities. The Chicago World's Fair, of course, diverted many who otherwise might have come to California.

"In 1931 we were faced with the problem of stimulating travel to California in view of the Olympic Games being held the following year. So we adopted the Fiesta Year plan, holding 365 celebrations throughout the state.

"Gold always has been a magic word. Today it is on every tongue. The mining regions are a hive of activity. Those districts still retain the romantic background and atmosphere of the days of '49.

"Here is the theme and the catch-word upon which we can base national publicity."

Smith suggests the gold theme be carried throughout all of the state's 365 annual celebrations; that every mining district stage special celebrations to culminate in giant fetes in San Francisco and Los Angeles; and that all booster organizations and private industries doing national advertising be urged to incorporate Gold Year in their advertising.

BOOK REVIEW

THE INDIAN IN AMERICAN LITERATURE

By Albert Keiser, Ph. D.
Reviewed by Abigail J. Stackpole

Not all of us realize the significant part the American Indian has played in our vast literature. Professor Keiser, of Leinor Rhyne College, Hickory, North Carolina, has done a splendid piece of work in his intrepretation of a broad field of poetry and prose whose subject matter is the American red man.

The author draws a sharp contrast between the genuine, flesh-and-blood Indian and the Indian as a romantic figure.

The LEgend of Pocahontas has a new meaning for us. And our respect for our New England ancestors grows less and less as we picture them with their Bibles and gunpowder and hear them gloating: "Let the whole earth be filled with glory! Thus the Lord was pleased to smite our Enemies in the hinder Parts, and to give us their Land for an Inheritance: Who remembered us in our low Estate, and redeemed us out of our Enemies Hands: Let us therefore praise the Lord . . ."

Westward and ever westward has the Indian been driven, his hunting ground now usurped by the white man's tractor. Hungry and often cold have made him swallow his pride and accept the white man's shelter. The author quotes from Hamlin Garland. A young brave is speaking:

"I do not wish to be shut up in a corral. It is bad for the young man to be fed by the agent. It makes him lazy and drunken. All the agency Indians I have ever seen are lazy and worthless. They are neither red warriors nor white farmers. They are nether wolf nor dog."

The author says with Garland that the situation is indeed tragic: "the natives are physically, mentally, and spiritually submerged by the rising tide of an alien race. Their customs and habits are sinking beneath the white man's civilization as dances, prayers, and ceremonies are discouraged or forbidden. No wonder that this forced transformation brings about a distressing situation, the injustice of which the author takes pains to emphasize."

One wishes heartily that every living Indian might be rewarded for the injustice done him and his race, that he might have the wealth produced by oil gushers as do many of his Oklahoma cousins.

"Here, as elsewhere," says Doctor Keiser, "powerful forces combine to usher in a new economic, political, and social era for the child of nature, who in his adaption of this new-found freedom will more and more cease to be an Indian and become an intergal part of the white civilization. As such he will no longer serve as the subject of separate literary portrayal, and the picture of the native as reflected in American literature will then at last be finished, except in so far as master artists of the future may here and there retouch the immense canvas."

The Bibliography which Doctor Keiser has been thoughtful enough to give is too long to be printed here. But anyone interested in the Indian and his place in American Literature, will do well to secure this book and study the authors recommended herein.

GEORGE LISCHER, OF CAMPTONVILLE, DEAD

CAMPTONVILLE, Nov. 14.—The community was greatly shocked Monday to learn of the sudden and unexpected death of George W. Lischer at his home in Henryetta, Oklahoma, death coming suddenly from a stroke of parlysis.

George W. Lischer was a brick mason by trade, and was in business of various types in his native state for many years. Some twenty years ago he came west to this place, with a company of men took over Weeds Point Hydraulic mine. At that time he built a dam and did some mining, but went back east where he remained for some fifteen years, finally returning west, re-opening his property, which is now in operative form, and only returning to Oklahoma about a year ago, to look after some property there, leaving his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hector McNeil here to operate the mine. They left Monday to attend the funeral.

"Yes. When he made the divvy hyar he give me his share of thet sixteen thousand. It's hyar in my coat. You an' Jim air welcome to it. 'Cause where I'm goin'—I won't need any."

"Sparrow, it was a long story fer a sick man—an' hard to tell," said Smoky, feelingly. "Jim an' me will respect your confidence. An' if you pull through—as I hope you do—we'll never squeak. . . . But, pard, don't be surprised at what comes off."

Five days later Sparrowhawk Latimer died during the night, after a short interval of improvement which gave his comrades renewed hope. He passed away alone, evidently in agony, to judge from his distorted face.

"Wal, I don't know but thet Sparrow's better off," remarked Smoky, with pathos.

They buried him in his tarpaulin on the spot, and divided his effects among them by drawing lots.

"What'd you do with the money you found on him?" queried Hays.

"We didn't find none. Sparrow gave it to me an' Jim some days ago," replied Smoky.

"Reckon you better divide it."

"Why not?"

"Wal, Sparrow wanted us to have it, not, I reckon, because we took care of him when you forgot, but jest because he cottoned to us."

"Smoky, tell Hays the other reason," spoke up Jim.

"Thet'll wait, Jim. No hurry. An' I'm not so shore Sparrow wanted us to tell."

Hank Hays turned livid.

"Ahuh. Mebbe you'd both be wise to stay shet up," he said and left.

"Fellers," said Brad Lincoln, turning to the others, "I've had a hunch all along there was a hitch in this deal. Air you with me in demandin' a showdown from Smoky an' Jim?"

"We shore air," rejoined Bridges, and Mac and Happy Jack expressed like loyalty.

"Smoky, you're square. If there's anythin', we want to know."

"Mebbe we can slick it over," replied Smoky, smoothly. "If we win all the boss' money—an' he'll shore be easy now with thet gurl on his mind—I reckon there won't be any sense in tellin' at all. Eh, Jim?"

"I don't make any rash promises, Smoky," returned Jim. "I admire you a lot, Slocum, but I'm thinking you run this into the ground. In all justice these men ought to be told something."

"I say cards. You fellers can't keep it forever," rejoined Lincoln, darkly.

From that hour dated the grim and passionate gambling in which they all participated. With one man on lookout duty the others spent most of the daylight hours sitting at Happy Jack's table of cottonwood poles.

Jim had separated his money into two parts—one consisting of the bills of large denomination, and the other of small. The latter he kept out for gambling, intending to quit when it was lost.

But fortune was fickle. He did not lose it. Instead, he won steadily. There was no hope of his getting out of the game so long as he was ahead. He wanted to watch, think, plan. Luck changed eventually, and he lost all he had won. Then he seesawed for a day, before he struck another streak of losing, and lost everything.

"I'm cleaned," he said, rising. "But, by gosh, I gave you a run."

"I'm way ahead. I'll lend you some," offered Hays.

"No, thanks. I'm glad to get off this well. I'll go up to the rock and send Mac down. From now on I'll do most of the lookout work. I like it."

Jim was glad this phase of his connection with the outfit was past. He had played for days, won and lost, all in the interest of the scheme fermenting in his mind. He wanted to be alone. If nothing else intervened, this gambling would lead to the inevitable quarrel. Whether Hays won all the money or lost what he had, there would be a fight.

At once a restless, baffled, harried condition of mind seemed to leave Jim. To face those men hour after hour, day after day, hiding his thoughts, had engendered irritation. When the split came and the shooting began Jim wanted to be around. He would help it along considerably.

One day, when he was returning to camp, somewhat before sunset, he heard a shot. He listened for others. None came.

The moment he entered the oval, to see Hays striding for the cabin, his hair standing up, and his men grouped outside of the camp shelter, Jim knew that there had been trouble.

"What now, Smoky?"

"Hank did fer Brad."

"How? Why? . . . You don't mean Hays beat Lincoln to a gun?"

"He did, Jim," ejaculated Slocum. "He bored Brad. I was the only feller who seen it. The rest was duckin'."

"What was it about, Smoky?"

"Wal, Brad has been gittin' sorer every day, an' today we cleaned him. Brad opened up on Hank, no doubt meanin' to call him fer fair. But Brad didn't git goin' good before Hank went fer his gun."

"Smoky, he had his mind made up," declared Jim, tensely.

"Shore. Thet's the queer part of it. Hank was not goin' to let Brad spit out much. . . . An' friend Jim, thet's a hunch fer us."

"Nor me either. Thet's a safe bet."

"Lend a hand, some of you," ordered Slocum, peremptorily.

They carried Lincoln, face down, across the oval to the lower side of the cottonwood grove, and in half an hour he had been consigned to earth, and his possessions divided among the men who had buried him.

"Grave number two!" speculated Smoky. "Fellers, it runs in my mind thet Robbers' Roost in these next twenty years will be sprinkled all over with graves."

"How so, when nobody has any idee where it is?"

"Heeseman will find it, an' Morley, an' after them many more," concluded Slocum, prophetically.

"Let's rustle out of the hole," suggested Bridges.

Leonard L. Bishop is still laid up with his arm in a cast, the arm being broken two months ago in a saw rig.

CAMPTONVILLE SERA PROJECTS OUTLINED

CAMPTONVILLE, Nov. 15.—The SERA activities in this section are slated to begin actual work in about two weeks. A number of local people have signed up in this emergency relief work, and Miss Margaret Mack, Yuba county director, of Marysville, will investigate each case, and properly enroll the applicants for their work.

Work will only be given when the support of the family is out of work and then only enough employment to take care of the family. It will be handled on a five day a week, six hours a day with a rate of 45 cents per hour. Some with large families will perhaps work steady, whereas others having any other income will work only enough days to balance their family budget.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

What Happened to the Trojans and Wolverines This Year? . . . With Tom Yawkey, Baseball's Croesus, Money Is No Object

HOW the mighty have fallen! For years any mention of Southern California or Michigan conjured up visions of mighty grid juggernauts, their paths strewn with the crushed hopes of opposition teams. Year after year many of the finest grid units in the country served as doormats for the dreaded Trojans and Wolverines, which invariably wound up among the first half dozen teams at the season's end.

But this year the picture is different. U. S. C. and Michigan are strangely absent from the list of Pacific Coast and Big Ten leaders. Harry Kipke's boys seem to be trailing far behind Minnesota and Illinois, current big shots of the Big Ten. Last year Minnesota was just another grid outfit, but Bernie Bierman, ably assisted by "Pug" Lund and other artists, seems to have injected into the team that divine spark that makes a winner.

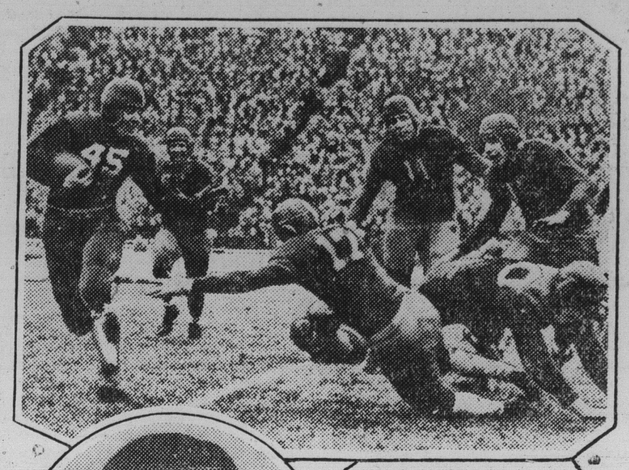
On the other hand, Bob Zuppke of Illinois has had to work with far lighter, but very intelligent material. The Illini, led by the scintillating Jack Beynon, have a bag full of trick plays—which they use with telling success—and a surplus of what is known as intestinal fortitude.

Out on the Pacific slope we find Washington State, with its Burl Bufkin and Art Ahonen, and Stanford, with Bobby Grayson as one of its main threats, raising Bob with the opposition. Santa Clara has also made itself known in no uncertain terms.

Perhaps the Wolves and Gophers will unearth a few "Red Granges" in 1935 who will bring them back in the grid spotlight, but they seem to have lost their cues this year.

* * *

IF an All-American Santa Claus is to be named this year, it occurs to us that Tom Yawkey, youthful owner of the Boston Red Sox, should get the post. In his efforts to put the Hub back on the baseball map, young Yawkey has spent over $3,000,000! And baseball's just a hobby with him. If the game got to be an obsession, the figure would probably resemble a war debt.



Yawkey comes honestly by his diamond leanings; his father was once owner of the Detroit Tigers. And Boston appreciates what the sportsman is doing, as record attendance figures for last season indicate.

Yawkey's capacious money pouch has been instrumental in whipping together a team feared through the entire circuit. But his prize package, a present for Beantown's predominantly Irish population, he saved for this year—the purchase of Joe Cronin, former manager of the Washington Senators.

And it's rumored that the Yawkian purse strings haven't yet been tied; that Jimmy Foxx's chubby face may be seen around the vicinity of first base in Fenway Park next year. And that, we might add, would be rather—or rather, rawthaw—a big break for Boston.

PUNTS AND FUMBLES

By G. W. L.

THIS week-end the Santa Clara-St. Mary's game holds the Pacific Coast football spotlight to the exclusion of all other games. It is also said to be the first complete sell-out on the books for a game this season. Slip Madigan has said that Santa Clara will never beat St. Mary's, but this year it looks as though the Broncs may make a liar out of him. St. Mary's has been the victim of two bad upsets this year, losing to the Nevada Wolves 9-7, and to U. C. L. A. 6-0, both defeats due to overconfidence on the part of the Gaels. The odds have swung to 10-8 on the Broncs, due to these defeats but it is our guess that this will only spur the Moragans on to a greater determination to win.

THE Broncos have a clear record, with no defeats and only one tie, and that with the powerful Stanford team, which now seems slated for the Coast Conference championship and the Rose Bowl bid. Their line and backs are excellent and what is more important they function as a unit, to make possible the complicated plays used by Clipper Smith. Our choice in this game is Santa Clara, on the strength of season performance alone. However, since Santa Clara has'nt beaten the Gaels for many a year, the boys are beginning to think Slip Madigan has jinxed the Broncs for good. If Santa Clara does beat St. Mary's they will have as good a record as Stanford, and the cry will go up from John Fan to have a rematch of the two teams, the winner to go to the Rose Bowl—and would that game bring in the crowds!

California and Stanford have their customary "breather" game this weekend to get prepared for the Big Game a week from tomorrow. These "breather" games sometimes turn out to be real contests, and Idaho comes down to Memorial Stadium with the avowed intention of licking the Golden Bears.

Down south in Alabama, the Crimson Wave begins to look like the choice for the Rose Bowl game, if Navy does not come through her last two games undefeated. Damon Runyon states that Alabama would massacre anything that the West could offer in the way of football teams, so perhaps Stanford will get a chance to make a liar out of the learned Mr. Runyon in the Rose Bowl contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bolton and daughter, Miss Alberta, spent last week end in San Francisco visiting and attending to business affairs.

AMERICAN INDIANS CIVIC CLUB TOPIC

The lecture given by J. B. Lillard, president of the Sacramento Junior College on the American Indian at the Woman's Civic Club on Monday was greatly enjoyed by a small but very appreciative audience. Mr. Lillard discussed the American Indian as he was before the white man came and pictured him as a dignified independent creature. Mr. Lillard had pictures of Indian pottery and basketry which were works of art. He pointed out various contributions of the Indian to American civilization. Corn, our greatest food crop, early farm irrigation, as used by the Indians of South America and—our college yells.

POPULAR DANCES AT UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

A good sizzed crowd enjoyed the dance at Uncle Tom's Cabin last Saturday night. Two duck dinners were given as door prizes; one was drawn by Martin Jones of the Murchie mine, and one by Fred Letner, of the Idaho-Maryland. Mr. Letner entertained the crowd several times during the evening with singing.

CAMPTONVILLE C C C BOYS HAVE DORMITORY

CAMPTONVILLE, Nov. 15.—The Mayo Building, which at one time was the local saloon, where many a song was sung, and many a friend displayed the hospitality characteristic to the old days, has now been put to another use, that of a dormitory for the local sub-camp of CCC camp No. 914.

Two lines of neatly made up army cots line the room, with a heater, and reading table, the old rifle cabinet used in the early days by the Camptonville Light Infrantry, served as a clothes closet. The place has been cleaned, building and premises, windows washed, etc., in accordance with army regulation.

And now instead of some old time yarn, or a revolution of an incident in the Black Hawk War as staged by Dutch Jake, the sound of a guitar can be heard, and a page in the lives of the CCC boys is being written.

LUMBER TALKS

We have opend their dim, old highways
From the bay to the mountain pines,
And, lured by the gold that called them,
We have deepened their shallow mines.
Imbued with their ardent courage
And their faith in the years to be,
We are holding the kingdom they conquered
From the ranges of light to the sea.
—A. M. C.

WITH the opening of the Tahoe-Ukiah highway, we may announce the opening of another dim old trail and invite the motorist into another section of Nevada county's wonderland. The towns and cities of the pioneers must smile a welcome.

The work or repairing and constructing goes merrily on, and the Nevada County Lumber Company has increased its stocks of building materials and is ready to help with both materials and timely suggestions.

Seasonal repairs are in order, and roofing, cement, shingles, fence pickets, and sidewalk timbers are in demand. Why not build the new garage now? Add a room, a sleeping porch, and a few built-in conveniences and by so doing give yourself satisfaction and aid the march back to prosperity.

SIERRA COUNTY MINES

RUBY MINE

Seven stamps are dropping steadily on good ore at the Ruby mine which lies between Alleghany and Downieville. Development of the principal ledge discovered in the tunnel is progressing satisfactorily, the winze being sunk from the 3,300 foot main tunnel. A substantial tonnage of ore is in sight. The other veins known to cross the property will be developed later. The ore bodies were discovered in ground below the old gravel channel which proved fabulously rich in the early day mining. C. L. Best, of the Best Tractor Company and one of the principal owners, visited the property in the last few days.

KENTON MINE

The Kenton mine, near Alleghany, being opened by Procter and Gamble of Ivory Soap fame, is milling a good tonnage of ore per day. Between 15 and 20 men are employed in development and mill work. W. V. Wilson is in charge of the property.

GERMAN BAR GOLD MINE

Practically all materials have been taken to the German Bar Gold Mines in northern Nevada county for the winter. Rapid progress is being made on the erection of the new mill. The management expects to place it in operation early in January. It is of ball mill type with a daily capacity of 35 tons.

Installation of a large compressor and pumps was completed recently. Ther are several tunnels, winzes and considerable lateral development on the property. Sufficient ore is available for an extended period of production. The property is operated by the German Bar Gold Mines, Inc., with Thomas Stephens in charge. He has spent several years in the development of this property and it is now nearing the production stage.

UNCHARTERED VEIN STRUCK

An unexpected and unusual formation of a rich quartz vein approximately three feet wide along the hanging wall in a drift from the 600 foot level was struck a few days ago at the Mattie mine, which is in the Deadman's Flat section below Grass Valley.

The discovery was made while a small crew working one shift was engaged in crosscutting about 300 feet from the main shaft. Development will continue in hopes of uncovering a rich pay shoot. It is an unchartered vein and of different formation from other veins encountered in other parts of the mine.

The main crew is developing on the 600 foot level to contact a good ore shoot which they expect to encounter any day. It is below the 480 level of the old workings. Mike McGuire, of Grass Valley, is superintendent.

An Army of Goodwill

When members of the Junior Red Cross learned that schoolbooks had been destroyed in the Kentucky floods last August they gave $100 from the National Children's Fund to buy new textbooks for use in the schools. The maximum membership for the Junior Red Cross last year was 7,350,280, an increase over the previous year of more than 250,000. They carry on civic and service programs in their own communities which each year bring comfort and pleasure to thousands of needy and unfortunate people. An international friendship is built up through correspondence with Junior Red Cross members in foreign countries.

"THE LADY IS WILLING" FEATURED AT NEVADA THEATER SUN. AND MON.

Heading an impressive cast which includes Gail Patrick, and Monte Blue, Randolph Scott returns for another of his hard-riding, whirlwind fighting and thrilling roles in the Paramount picturization of Zane Grey's "Wagon Wheels," tonight at the Nevada Theater.

In this handsomely directed and mounted film, which details some of the actual and historic adventures that beset the sturdy pioneers who took the first wagon train across the country in 1844 to Oregon. Scott plays the role of an Indian-fighting frontier scout.

A new plot twist uniting gangdom and college in a fashion hitherto unknown provides unusual comedy, drama and thrills in RKO-Radio Pictures' story of college football, "Gridiron Flash," which will be shown at the Nevada Theater Saturday night.

A hardened young convicted bank robber, known as the "Cherub," because of his baby face makes a reputation as a gridiron champion while playing on the prison football team.

A rich alumnus from Belford College hears of the lad, makes an investigation, and the "Cherub" is pardoned and placed in Belford.

Eddie Quillan and Betty Furness are co-featured.

Sunday and Monday the Nevada Theater offers the gay and scintillating comedy, "The Lady is Willing," with Leslie Howard and Binnie Barnes, the lovely English stage star.

Leslie Howard is cast as a suave, engaging and fascinating rogue with a flair for fun and a weakness for women. But his weakness for women is more than equaled by the "lady's weakness for him." His charms win her so completely that she wants him to hold him her captive forever—while he ransoms the lady for himself with his own kisses. Binnie Barnes is the lovely lady who likes to be captured.

New Faces in U. S. Senate

YOUNG AMERICA GROUP CLOSED FOR WINTER

H. R. Plate, of Grass Valley, manager of the Spring Hill mine and operator of the Young America and group of mining properties near Sardine Lake, above Sierra City, has suspended operations for the winter months. A great deal has been accomplished in cleaning out old tunnels, retimbering and development work, since taking over the properties.

C. J. Harry, who was in charge of the work has returned to Grass Valley where he will resume duties as mine superintendent under Mr. Plate.

Unwatering of the Golden Gate property continues and it is expected the shaft will soon be in readiness for sampling. This property adjoins the Spring Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Maguire Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Maguire, prominent Nevada City couple, celebrated their 34th wedding anniversary Wednesday evening with a delicious turkey dinner at their home on Drummond street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Maguire were born and reared in Nevada county. Mrs. Maguire at Forest Springs and Mr. Maguire at Lowell Hill. He grew to young manhood there and acquired the Liberty Hill mine, which he sold a few years ago. He still owns mining property in eastern Nevada county and is one of the best known authorities on mining and mining conditions in this section.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Maguire Sr., their son, William Jr., and wife, and two daughters, Patsy and Nancy, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Krough and daughter, Betty Lou.

Miss Genevieve Dolan Weds Donald McKay

In the last few days Mr. and Mrs. James F. Dolan received the announcement of the engagement of Mr. Dolan's niece, Miss Genevieve Dolan to Donald McKay, of San Francisco.

Miss Dolan is a beautiful and charming young woman who has visited in Nevada City since a small child and is well known here. She has taught in the Modesto high school since graduating from the University of California five years ago. A tea and reception were given her in her honor at the St. Francis hotel in San Francisco, recently.

KROUGH FAMILY LEAVES FOR ARIZONA

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Krough and daughter, Betty Lou, left Thursday by automobile for Tuscon, Arizona, where they will reside going there for the benefit of Mr. Krough's health. They will go by the southern route, stopping over in Los Angeles and visiting other points of interest on the way. Mrs. Krough is of prominent pioneer parents and grandparents, her grandfather being Rev. Sims, who for many years was pastor of the Congregational church here. The little daughter is disappointed in not being able to follow her mother and grandmother in graduating from the local high and grammar schools. The grandmother, Mrs. Eliza Sims Boyd attended grammar school where John O'Neill's home now stands.

MISS HIERONOMOUS IS GUEST OF HONOR

Miss Frieda Hieronimous, a past president of Laural Parlor, N. D. G. W., and one of its most active members, was the complimented guest on Wednesday evening at a banquet in the Odd Fellow's building. The affair was in honor of her approaching marriage to Mr. K. J. Ronchi, of Folsom. About seventy native daughters from Nevada City and Grass Valley attended the affair. Mrs. Belle Douglas was a witty toastmistress at the banquet and called upon the following:

Josie Muscardini, Lena Calanan, Leila Hieronimous, Lenore Coughlin, Zoe Tredennick, Nellie Clarke, Annie Scheemer, Ailson Watt, a Past Grand President, Venita Jones, Supervising District Deputy, Grace Eva, District Deputy, Melita Hutchinson, Annie Conlin, Louise Wales, Olive Vincent. A note from Miss Annie Bryne, a member of Laurel Parlor, to the guest of honor was read.

After the banquet card games were enjoyed in the lodge rooms, prizes were received by Mrs. Jack Woods, Mrs. Lucile Hamilton and Mrs. Nellie Clarke.

DEATH SUMMONS JUDGE WINBURN

Funeral services for the late Judge O. E. Winburn, of Grass Valley, who passed away in Stockton early this week, were conducted by the Sacramento International Typographical Union of which he was a member, Thursday afternoon, in Sacramento. Mr. Winburn had been a member of the I. T. U. since a young man. Besides other importanat positions in Los Angeles, he at one time conducted a newspaper there for a time. Members of the Grass Valley Morning Union staff and several Grass Valley friends attended the services.

He was a member of the Masonic order and held membership in the Knights Templar and Shrine branches. Judge Winburn was appointed to fill the vacancy made by the death of Judge John Mulroy. He leaves a brother in Los Angeles to mourn his passing.

It's 'Cheerio' as Britons Land

Personal

Constable Thomas Oliver has been confined to his home for several days with an attack of illness.

Mrs. Ed Smith, who has been recovering from a recent operation on her face, at the home of a daughter in Vallejo, was able to return to her home in Nevada City Sunday.

Miss Adele Calanan returned to her position as nurse at Dr. W. W. Reed's office Thursday for the first time in a mnoth. A part of this time was spent in caring for Mr. S. Lee Leiter, who has been ill at the Jones Memorial hospital. Miss Louise Schreiber filled the position in Dr. Reed's office while Miss Calanan was away.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green, of Red Bluff, spent three days this week at the home of Mrs. Green's brother, Bran Krough, and family in Nevada City. Mr. Krough, an overseas war veteran, is in poor health.

Chris Peterson is making a good recovery from a broken instep sustained in mine work at the Union Blue mine some time ago. He will be able to walk before long.

Miss Alice Moore, local accountant, will leave tomorrow for a ten day visit in Salem, Oregon.

E. R. Jameson, chain link fence man, of Sacramento, who has been here in town erecting a fence for the Alpha hardware store, left yesterday. His next job is fence work in the government flood control district in Sacramento.

Mrs. Frank Pierce, who has been visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. J. Jackson in Nevada City, returned to her home in Sacramento Wednesday.

Miss Emily Uren, who has spent the summer in Nevada City with her brother, E. C. Uren and Mrs. Uren, is preparing to return to San Francisco in a few days to spend the winter.

Mrs. Kate Sullivan and daughter, Miss Nelly Sullivan, of French Corral, were calling on friends in Nevada City Wednesday.

Bill Elkus, high school student, suffered a badly sprained ankle while playing football Monday afternoon. He will be laid up with it for three or four weeks.

Mrs. Orlando McCraney and Mrs. L. R. Robins spent Thursday in Sacramento visiting with relatives of Mrs. McCraney, and shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Rore have added another room to their new home on Nile street. The new homes of Mr. and Mrs. Tarkington, formerly of Grass Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Risley, fill the space between the Flynn and Rore homes and add much to that section of town.

Reports are that the unwatering of the Gracie-Glencoe mine, southeast of Nevada City has been completed and some extremely high grade ore was encountered Monday.

Fred Barton, mining man, was in Nevada City this week looking over mining property in the Willow Valley section with a view of taking over mining ground.

HAT BANDS FOR CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Miss Zoe Tredennick, guardian, is entertaining Ahdenah Group of Camp Fire Girls at her home Saturday afternoon. Work is to continue on their hatbands and reports will be given on honors they have won. This is the first meeting since the Hallowe'en party.
